(54) Title: METHOD AND FILTERING TEXT MESSAGES IN A COMMUNICATION DEVICE

(57) Abstract: A method of filtering messages received by a telecommunications device comprises inputting a rule set into the telecommunications device, and then reading an incoming message. The message is then modified if that message breaks a rule of the rule set; and the modified message is displayed. The rule set comprises a plurality of rules, each of which relates to a respective predetermined message content.
